

Corrections to this opinion/decision not affecting the outcome, at the Court's discretion, can occur up to the time of publication with NM Compilation Commission. The Court will ensure that the electronic version of this opinion/decision is updated accordingly in Odyssey.

IN THE COURT OF APPEALS OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO

Opinion Number: _____

Court of Appeals of New Mexico
Filed 3/21/2023 10:38 AM

Filing Date: March 21, 2023

Mark Reynolds

No. A-1-CA-39984

STATE OF NEW MEXICO,

Plaintiff-Appellee,

v.

JASON STALTER,

Defendant-Appellant.

APPEAL FROM THE DISTRICT COURT OF SAN JUAN COUNTY

Karen L. Townsend, District Court Judge

Raúl Torrez, Attorney General
Maris Veidemanis, Assistant Attorney General
Santa Fe, NM

for Appellee

Bennett J. Baur, Chief Public Defender
Santa Fe, NM
Mark A. Peralta-Silva, Assistant Appellate Defender
Albuquerque, NM

for Appellant

1 OPINION

2 WRAY, Judge.

3 {1} Defendant Jason Stalter appeals his convictions for larceny over $20,000, 4 contrary to NMSA 1978, Section 30-16-1 (2006), and burglary, contrary to NMSA
5 1978, Section 30-16-3 (1971), in connection with money stolen from the Lowe’s 6 Home Improvement (Lowe’s) store in Farmington, New Mexico on December 2, 7 2017 (the incident). At trial, Defendant presented alibi evidence and requested the 8 uniform jury instruction on alibi, UJI 14-5150 NMRA. The district court denied the 9 jury instruction based on the direction in the accompanying use note (Use Note). On 10 appeal, Defendant challenges the denial of the alibi jury instruction as well as the 11 admission, exclusion, and sufficiency of the evidence. We affirm but express our 12 rationale for our reservations related to the Use Note’s categorical prohibition of the 13 alibi instruction. See State v. Wilson, 1994-NMSC-009, ¶ 6, 116 N.M. 793, 867 P.2d 14 1175 (encouraging this Court to “express its rationale for any reservations it might 15 harbor over Supreme Court precedent”).

16 BACKGROUND

17 {2} Defendant worked at Lowe’s as an overnight department manager but was 18 fired on November 30, 2017, two days before the incident. As a department manager, 19 Defendant had keys to enter the store and a code to disarm the alarm system.
20 Defendant testified that he returned his keys on the day he was fired, and Lowe’s

1 security personnel, Elizabeth Nickel, testified that all the keys were accounted for 2 the following day and that Defendant's code had been deactivated. Video 3 surveillance from December 2, 2017, at 10:40 p.m. (incident footage), showed that 4 an individual "wearing all black" used a key to enter Lowe's through the front doors, 5 disabled the alarm system, went into to the "cash office," unlocked a code-protected 6 safe, took cash from the safe, and left the store in a little over two minutes.

7 {3} Nickel received a call around 5:00 a.m., informing her of the theft. When she 8 arrived at the store, she ensured that the police were called and reviewed the incident 9 footage. Officer Flores was the responding officer. He first spoke to the store 10 manager, who conveyed his suspicion that Defendant was the person in the incident 11 footage. Officer Flores next investigated the area for evidence and received a copy 12 of the incident footage from Nickel. Nickel also suspected Defendant had taken the 13 money and provided Officer Flores with additional video footage of Defendant from 14 his time working at Lowe's (workplace footage). Shortly thereafter, Detective Rock 15 took over the investigation.

16 {4} Defendant maintained throughout the investigation and trial that he could not 17 have stolen from the Lowe's in Farmington on December 2, 2017, because he was 18 visiting friends in Cedar City, Utah. According to Defendant, from December 1, 19 2017, through December 4, 2017, he visited and stayed with his friend, Wayne 20 Majeski and Wayne's husband, Secondo Docimo. Before trial, the district court

1 agreed to admit into evidence Docimo's preliminary examination testimony but 2 during trial reversed that ruling. As a result, only Defendant and Majeski testified at 3 trial that Defendant was in Cedar City, Utah at the time of the incident. In order to 4 establish a timeline for the alibi, Defendant offered receipts and copies of his bank 5 and phone records. One receipt indicated that Defendant purchased dinner from a 6 restaurant in Cedar City, Utah at 6:15 p.m. on December 2, 2017. Defendant argued 7 that it would have been impossible for him to have the time to return to Farmington, 8 New Mexico by 10:40 p.m., when the incident took place. The evidence at trial 9 confirmed that it would take over six hours to drive from Cedar City to Farmington.

10 {5} For over an hour at trial, the State showed multiple videos and screenshots of 11 the incident and workplace footage. Nickel testified about her interpretation of the 12 videos and screenshots, identified Defendant in the workplace footage, and gave her 13 opinion that Defendant was the person in black in the incident footage. According 14 to Nickel, she concluded that Defendant was the person in black after reviewing the 15 incident footage and further confirmed this conclusion when she reviewed the 16 workplace footage of Defendant next to the incident footage.

17 {6} During trial, Defendant requested that the district court give the uniform alibi 18 jury instruction. See UJI 14-5150. Defendant argued that the State appeared to be 19 shifting the burden to Defendant to prove his alibi and that the uniform instruction 20 would clarify and prevent any burden shifting. The State maintained that the 1 accompanying Use Note to UJI 14-5150 “says no instruction on this subject shall be 2 given, period, it doesn’t say except in certain circumstances” and that the alibi 3 instruction was not necessary to explain the burdens, because the elements 4 instruction required the State to prove that Defendant was present for both offenses.

5 The district court denied the alibi instruction, based on the accompanying Use Note, 6 which states, “No instruction on this subject shall be given.” See UJI 14-5150 use 7 note. The State’s closing argument criticized Defendant’s alibi evidence as 8 inconsistent and not credible and culminated with the assertion that “the only way 9 he’s not guilty is if you believe him and Mr. Majeski.”

10 {7} The jury found Defendant guilty on both Count I, larceny over $20,000, and 11 Count II, burglary. At sentencing, the district court ordered Defendant to pay 12 restitution in the amount of $33,040.83 and sentenced Defendant to nine years’ 13 incarceration. Defendant appeals the convictions and sentence.

14 DISCUSSION

15 {8} Defendant makes three arguments on appeal: (1) he was entitled to have the 16 district court give the requested uniform alibi instruction; (2) Docimo’s preliminary 17 hearing testimony was improperly excluded at trial and Nickel’s identification 18 testimony was improperly admitted; and (3) the State failed to present evidence as 19 to the amount stolen that was sufficient to support the conviction and the restitution 20 order. We begin our analysis with the alibi instruction.

1 I. The Alibi Instruction

2 {9} New Mexico’s uniform alibi jury instruction states as follows:

3 Evidence has been presented concerning whether or not the 4 defendant was present at the time and place of the commission of the 5 offense charged. If, after a consideration of all the evidence, you have 6 reasonable doubt that the defendant was present at the time the crime
7 was committed, you must find him not guilty.

8 UJI 14-5150. The accompanying Use Note expressly states, “No instruction on this 9 subject shall be given.” The committee commentary provides the following 10 explanation:

11 The language of this instruction is derived from California Jury 12 Instructions Criminal, 4.50. The New Mexico Supreme Court has held 13 that the defendant’s alibi is a question for the jury. The [C]ourt has also 14 held that it is improper to instruct that the burden is on the defendant to 15 prove his alibi. There are no New Mexico decisions holding that the 16 jury must be instructed on the question of alibi. Analytically, an alibi is 17 not a technical or “legal” defense but it is used to cast doubt on the 18 proof of elements of the crime. Consequently, the committee believed 19 that no instruction on alibi should be given since it merely comments 20 on the evidence.

21 UJI 14-5150, comm. cmt. (citations omitted). Defendant contends that despite the 22 Use Note and commentary, the requested alibi instruction was (1) warranted because 23 the evidence supported an alibi, and (2) necessary to avoid juror confusion.
24 Defendant has not challenged the text of the jury instruction. At oral argument, 25 however, the State maintained that giving UJI 14-5150 in the present case would not 26 have cured any error because the instruction does not clarify the burden of proof 27 with respect to alibi and suggested that the jury instruction approved by the Fourth

1 Circuit Court of Appeals is more comprehensive and appropriate under the 2 circumstances. See Frye v. Procunier, 746 F.2d 1011, 1012-13 (4th Cir. 1984).

3 {10} The parties’ arguments raise significant questions. We cannot, however, avoid 4 the threshold question of this Court’s authority to reject jury instructions and use 5 notes. While committee commentary is not binding, State v. Barber, 2004-NMSC-6 019, ¶ 10 n.1, 135 N.M. 621, 92 P.3d 633, use notes are binding and in particular, 7 are “binding on district courts,” Delfino v. Griffo, 2011-NMSC-015, ¶ 19, 150 N.M.
8 97, 257 P.3d 917. Indeed, our Supreme Court has equated UJI 14-5150 with the Use
9 Note. See State v. McGuire, 1990-NMSC-067, ¶ 31, 110 N.M. 304, 795 P.2d 996 10 (noting that “the uniform jury instruction on this topic provides that no instruction 11 shall be given”). Defendant’s arguments would require us to reject the Use Note.
12 This Court may only “amend, modify, or abolish” a uniform jury instruction if it has 13 not been “reviewed and ruled upon” by our Supreme Court. Wilson, 1994-NMSC-14 009, ¶ 6; see also State v. Parish, 1994-NMSC-073, ¶ 24, 118 N.M. 39, 878 P.2d 15 988 (“The only restriction is that if there exists precedent from [our Supreme] Court 16 that specifically addresses the validity of a Uniform Jury Instruction, the Court of 17 Appeals may not overrule that precedent nor alter or reject that instruction.” 18 (alterations, internal quotation marks, and citation omitted)). Our Supreme Court has 19 “sustain[ed]” and “reaffirm[ed]” the Use Note at issue. See State v. Robinson, 1980-20 NMSC-049, ¶ 31, 94 N.M. 693, 616 P.2d 406 (referring to the alibi instruction as

1 N.M.U.J.I.Crim. 41.30 (current version at UJI 14-5150)). But see McGuire, 1990-
2 NMSC-067, ¶ 31 (affirming the denial of the alibi uniform jury instruction absent 3 “considerations contrary to” the analysis in the committee commentary).
4 Accordingly, we are bound by Robinson and precluded from overruling the Use 5 Note. See Wilson, 1994-NMSC-009, ¶ 4 (“[T]he Court of Appeals is not precluded
6 from considering error in jury instructions, but is precluded only from overruling 7 those instructions that have been considered by [our Supreme] Court in actual cases 8 and controversies that are controlling precedent.”). We therefore can discern no error 9 in the district court’s denial of the alibi instruction.

10 {11} Nevertheless, our Supreme Court has encouraged this Court “to express its 11 rationale for any reservations it might harbor over Supreme Court precedent.” Id.
12 ¶ 6. The Use Note appears to limit both the district court’s general authority to 13 consider the circumstances of the case when deciding to instruct the jury on alibi and 14 this Court’s application of the standard of review for preserved challenges to the 15 denial of an instruction. Our Supreme Court has broadly approved the district court’s 16 “authority to disregard uniform jury instructions in cases in which under the facts or 17 circumstances of the particular case the published instruction is erroneous or 18 otherwise improper, and the [district] court so finds and states of record its reasons.” 19 Id. ¶ 4 (alteration, internal quotation marks, and citation omitted). This is in line with 20 the district court’s duty “to properly instruct the jury on the law.” See UJI Crim. Gen.

1 NMRA use note (instructing the district court both that “[n]o instruction shall be 2 given on a subject which a use note directs that no instruction be given” and that 3 “[t]o avoid fundamental error, it is the duty of the court to properly instruct the jury 4 on the law”). But that discretion to alleviate juror confusion is countermanded by the 5 Use Note’s direction that “[n]o instruction on this subject shall be given.” UJI 14-6 5150 use note (emphasis added).

7 {12} The district court’s mandatory compliance with the Use Note further prevents 8 this Court from meaningfully applying the standard of review for preserved jury 9 instruction error. We generally review whether reversible error resulted from juror 10 confusion or misdirection, see State v. Benally, 2001-NMSC-033, ¶ 12, 131 N.M.
11 258, 34 P.3d 1134, and in our de novo review, we consider “the evidence in the light 12 most favorable to the giving of the requested instructions,” State v. Skippings, 2011-13 NMSC-021, ¶ 10, 150 N.M. 216, 258 P.3d 1008 (alteration, internal quotation 14 marks, and citation omitted). In the context of use notes, our courts have concluded 15 that error resulting from the failure to follow mandatory use notes does not 16 automatically result in reversal. See Barber, 2004-NMSC-019, ¶ 20 (agreeing 17 generally that the failure to give a definitional instruction that is mandated by a use 18 note is not fundamental error); State v. Dominguez, 2014-NMCA-064, ¶ 18, 327 P.3d 19 1092 (stating that the “failure to give a mandatory instruction” does not 20 “automatically” require the “reversal or modification of an otherwise valid

1 conviction,” but rather, “it is the failure to give a mandatory instruction on the law 2 essential for a conviction that constitutes reversible error”). But here, our Supreme 3 Court has adopted and approved a categorical directive not to give UJI 14-5150.<sup>1</sup> 4 Thus, the district court has no discretion to give the instruction and consequently, 5 this Court has no role on review.

6 {13} While we are bound by the restrictions that are outlined in Wilson and 7 solidified as to UJI 14-5150 in Robinson, we are keenly aware of the tension between 8 these restrictions and the role that each court plays to safeguard the rights of New 9 Mexicans. This tension is heightened by both the significant case law that has 10 developed across the country addressing alibi instructions and the particular 11 circumstances of this case. For these reasons, as encouraged by our Supreme Court 12 in Wilson, we offer our analysis in this regard. We first review the national landscape 13 of alibi law as it relates to jury instructions, and in that context, further (1) evaluate 14 the State’s arguments in support of both the Use Note and the committee

---

<sup>1</sup>UJI 14-5150 is not the only uniform instruction accompanied by a mandatory use note directing that no instruction be given. See, e.g., UJI 14-2823 NMRA use note (accessories to crimes); UJI 14-5024 NMRA use note (weighing conflicting testimony); UJI 14-5030 NMRA use note (flight); UJI 14-5140 NMRA use note (excusable homicide). At oral argument, Defendant pointed out that our uniform instructions include approximately thirty such use notes. We limit our discussion, however, to the instruction at hand, and we have not considered the propriety of any other instruction and use note.

1 commentary; and (2) consider whether denying the instruction in the present 2 circumstances created an untenable risk of juror confusion or misdirection.

3 A. The Majority and Minority Approaches to Alibi Instructions

4 {14} The law of alibi instructions went through a remarkable shift in the last 5 century and a half. The early cases often involved defendants seeking reversal 6 because a prejudicial alibi instruction was given. See, e.g., State v. Taylor, 24 S.W.
7 449, 456 (Mo. 1893) (reversing based on an instruction that shifted the burden of 8 proof); State v. McClellan, 59 P. 924, 924-26 (Mont. 1900) (concluding an 9 instruction that shifted the burden of proof was “radically wrong”); State v. Johnson, 10 17 N.W.2d 345, 346 (S.D. 1945) (“The courts generally hold that an instruction 11 which advises the jury that an unsuccessful attempt to prove an alibi is a 12 circumstance to be weighed against the defendant on the question of the sufficiency 13 of the evidence to prove defendant’s guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, is erroneous 14 and prejudicial.”). In later years, the arguments shifted to whether an instruction was 15 required to ensure that juries understood the burdens of proof. See, e.g., Ferguson v.
16 State, 488 P.2d 1032, 1038 (Alaska 1971) (“[W]ithout proper instruction the jury 17 might erroneously believe that the defendant has the burden of proving alibi.”); State 18 v. Hunt, 197 S.E.2d 513, 518 (N.C. 1973) (“Notwithstanding the court’s instruction 19 that the burden of proof is on the [s]tate to satisfy the jury from the evidence beyond 20 a reasonable doubt that the defendant was present and that [the defendant] committed

1 the crime, if a particular defendant is apprehensive that the jury will be misled unless 2 the court gives an instruction . . . [the defendant] will be entitled to such instruction 3 [u]pon special request therefor.”); Commonwealth v. Mikell, 729 A.2d 566, 570 (Pa.
4 1999) (“Where such evidence has been introduced, a defendant is entitled to an alibi 5 instruction to alleviate the danger that the jurors might impermissibly view a failure 6 to prove the defense as a sign of the defendant’s guilt.”). Different jurisdictions 7 define alibi slightly differently or require different amounts of evidence to justify an 8 instruction. See, e.g., Greenhow v. United States, 490 A.2d 1130, 1134 (D.C. 1985) 9 (requiring alibi evidence to “be of such a character that, if believed, it would show 10 that the defendant could not have committed the crime”); Dixon v. State, 227 So. 2d 11 740, 742-43 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1969) (requiring less than “absolute impossibility” 12 to establish an alibi). These complexities—the changing contexts for alibi 13 instructions and distinctions between alibi analyses—make discussing trends 14 difficult because the nuances complicate broad statements about the law.
15 Nevertheless, our review leads us to conclude that most jurisdictions permit the 16 district courts to exercise some discretion about whether to give an alibi instruction.
17 {15} New Mexico’s categorical denial of an alibi instruction is the minority 18 approach among state and federal jurisdictions. Most other jurisdictions offer a 19 defendant the opportunity for an alibi instruction either by uniform instruction or

1 special submission of the parties.<sup>2</sup> In most offering jurisdictions, a defendant must 2 request the alibi instruction and provide a level of evidentiary showing to support

---

<sup>2</sup>These jurisdictions are Alabama, see Alabama Pattern Jury Instructions: Criminal, Non-Statutory Special Instructions, Alibi (approved April 15, 2016) (currently found at <https://judicial.alabama.gov/docs/library/docs/alibi.pdf>); Alaska, see Alaska Criminal Pattern Jury Instruction 1.40 (Revised 1999), AK-JICRIM 1.40 (West); Arizona, see RAJI (Criminal) 5th, No. 46 (2019); California, see CALCRIM No. 3400 and Cal. Jury Instructions--Criminal CALJIC 4.50; Connecticut, see Conn. Criminal Jury Instructions § 2.7-2 (Nov. 2021), available at <https://jud.ct.gov/JI/Criminal/Criminal.pdf>; Delaware, see Del. P.J.I. Crim. § 5.61; District of Columbia (D.C.), see 1 Barbara E. Bergman, Criminal Jury Instructions for the District of Columbia § 9.200 (Matthew Bender, Rev. Ed.), available by request, filed herein as part of this Court's Supplemental Record Proper (SRP) at 0001-7; Florida, see Fla. Std. Jury Instr. (Crim.) 3.6(i), JICRIM FL-CLE 3-1, 3.6(i) (West); Georgia, see Georgia Suggested Pattern Jury Instructions, Vol. II: Criminal Cases, § 3.30.10 (4th ed. 2022), GAJICRIM 3.30.10 (West); Hawai'i, see Hawai'i Pattern Jury Instructions--Criminal 7.14, HI R CR JURY Instr. 7.14 (West); Iowa, see Iowa State Bar Ass'n, Criminal Jury Instructions § 200.15 (2022), available by request, SRP at 008-09; Maryland, see MD-JICRIM 5:00; Massachusetts, see Instruction 9.120 of the Criminal Model Jury Instructions for Use in the District Court (2009), MJ MA-CLE 9.100 (West); Michigan, see MI-MJICRIM 7.4 (Lack of Presence (Alibi)), MI-MJICRIM 7.8 (Identification); Mississippi, see Miss. Prac. Model Jury Instr., Crim. § 2:1 (2d ed.) and Miss. Plain Lang. Model Jury Instr. Crim. 500; Missouri, see 27 Mo. Prac., Criminal Practice Forms § 9.33 (2d ed.), available by request, SRP at 0018-21; Montana, see MCJI 2-119, available at <https://courts.mt.gov/Courts/boards/CriminalJuryInstructionsCommission> (select Ch. 2); Nebraska, see 1 Neb. Prac., NJI2d Crim. 8.1 (2016-2017 ed.); Nevada, see Duckett v. State, 752 P.2d 752, 754 (Nev. 1988); New Hampshire, see N.H. Criminal Jury Instructions 3.02 (1985), available at <https://nhba.s3.amazonaws.com/wp-content/uploads/2020/07/14150407/NH-Criminal-Jury-Instructions-1985.pdf>; New Jersey, see New Jersey Model Jury Charges (Criminal), "Alibi (Non 2C)" (rev. May 12, 2018), NJ-JICRIM Non 2C Charges (West); New York, see CJ12D(NY) GA 21–Alibi and 1 Charges to Jury & Requests to Charge in Crim. Case in N.Y. §§ 5:7-:9 (Oct. 2022 update); North Carolina, see N.C.P.I.-Crim. 301.10 (2003); North Dakota, see N.D. Jury Instructions - Criminal, K 3.05 Alibi (2022 ed.), available at https://www.sband.org/page/pattern\_jury\_instruc; Ohio, see 2 Ohio Jury Instructions § 421.03, 2 OJI-CR 421.03 (West); Oklahoma, see VRN-OKFORM OUJI-CR 8-57;

---

Oregon, see Uniform Criminal Jury Instruction 1101, OR-JICRIM 1101 (West); Pennsylvania, see PA-JICRIM 3.11; South Carolina, see Anderson's S.C. Requests to Charge - Criminal § 6-19 (2d ed. 2012), SC-JICRIM 6-19; South Dakota, see S.D. Pattern Jury Instructions (Criminal) 2-1-1 (rev. 2020), available on request, SRP at 0022-23; Tennessee, see 7 T.P.I.-Crim. 42.13 (2022), TNPRACJICR 42.13 (West); Utah, see State v. Hanna, 21 P.2d 537, 539 (1933), but see State v. Lynch, 2011 UT App 1, 246 P.3d 525; Vermont, see Vt. Model Criminal Jury Instructions § 9-011 (2005), available at <https://www.vtjuryinstructions.org/criminal/MS09-011.htm> (last visited Jan. 30, 2023) and § 9-021 (2010), available at <https://www.vtjuryinstructions.org/criminal/MS09-021.htm> (last visited Jan. 30, 2023); Virginia, see Va. Prac. Jury Instruction §§ 65:1 to -:3, VAPRAC JI 65:1-:3 (West); West Virginia, see Public Defender's Services, West Virginia's Criminal Jury Instructions, 8.1 (7th ed.), available at <https://pds.wv.gov/attorney-and-staff-resources/research-center/legal-resources/Documents/Jury%20Instructions%207th%20Edition.pdf>; and Wisconsin, see WIS JI-CRIMINAL JI-775. Additionally, the federal circuit courts of appeal have all adopted or affirmed some form of alibi instruction. See Comm. on Pattern Crim. Jury Instructions 1st Cir., 5.01, available at <https://www.mad.uscourts.gov/resources/pattern2003>; United States v. Burse, 531 F.2d 1151, 1152-54 (2d Cir. 1976); Comm. on Model Crim. Jury Instructions 3d Cir., 8.02 (2021), available at <https://www.ca3.uscourts.gov/sites/ca3/files/2021%20Chapter%208%20for%20posting%20final.pdf>; Frye, 746 F.2d at 1012-14 (4th Cir.); Comm. on Pattern Jury Instructions Dist. Judges Ass'n 5th Cir., 1.37, Alibi (2019), available at <https://www.lb5.uscourts.gov/juryinstructions/fifth/crim2015.pdf>; Sixth Circuit Comm. on Pattern Crim. Jury Instructions, 6.02 (2021), available at https://www.ca6.uscourts.gov/sites/ca6/files/documents/pattern\_jury/pdf/Chapter%206\_1.pdf; Comm. on Fed. Crim. Jury Instructions of the 7th Cir., 6.03 (2022), available at https://www.ca7.uscourts.gov/pattern-jury-instructions/pattern\_criminal\_jury\_instructions\_2020edition.pdf; Comm. on Model Jury Instructions for the District Courts of the 8th Cir., 9.07 (2021), available at <https://juryinstructions.ca8.uscourts.gov/instructions/criminal/CriminalJuryInstructions.pdf>; 9th Cir. Crim. Jury Instr. 5.1 (2022), available at <https://www.ce9.uscourts.gov/jury-instructions/node/865>; Crim. Pattern Jury Instruction Comm. for the 10th Cir., 1.35 (2021), available at <https://www.ca10.uscourts.gov/sites/ca10/files/documents/downloads/Jury%20Instructions%202021%20Version.pdf>; Eleventh Circuit Pattern Jury Instructions, Criminal Cases, S14 (2016); available at <https://www.ca11.uscourts.gov/sites/default/files/courtdocs/clk/FormCriminalPatternJ>

1 the alibi.<sup>3</sup> Some offering jurisdictions go so far as to suggest or place a sua sponte 2 duty on the district court to instruct on the subject of alibi when the evidence supports 3 the instruction.<sup>4</sup> Many jurisdictions—including offering jurisdictions—also uryInstructionsRevisedMAR2022.pdf; United States v. Alston, 551 F.2d 315, 319 (D.C. Cir. 1976).

---

<sup>3</sup>See Ex parte Brown, 812 So. 2d 305, 307 (Ala. 2001); Ferguson v. State, 488 P.2d 1032, 1038-39 (Alaska 1971); State v Rodriguez, 961 P.2d 1006, 1011 (Ariz. 1998) (en banc); People v. Whitson, 154 P.2d 867, 872 (Cal. 1944); State v. Butler, 543 A.2d 270, 276 (Conn. 1988); Brown v. State, 958 A.2d 833, 834 (Del. 2008); Henderson v. United States, 619 A.2d 16, 19 (D.C. 1992); Truett v. State, 105 So. 3d 656, 660 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2013); Henderson v. State, 252 S.E.2d 83, 84 (Ga. Ct. App. 1979); State v. Holm, 478 P.2d 284, 288 n.9 (Idaho 1970); Smith v. State, 486 A.2d 196, 198 (Md. 1985); Commonwealth v. Medina, 404 N.E.2d 1228, 1237 (Mass. 1980); People v. McGinnis, 262 N.W.2d 669, 671 (Mich. 1978); State v. Taylor, 24 S.W. 449, 454 (Mo. 1893); Duckett, 752 P.2d at 754; State v. Dale, 770 A.2d 1111, 1113-14 (N.H. 2001); State v. Echols, 972 A.2d 1091, 1102 (N.J. 2009); People v. Vera, 462 N.Y.S.2d 467, 468 (N.Y. App. Div. 1983); State v. Kalmio, 2014 ND 101, ¶ 41, 846 N.W.2d 752, 765; State v. Mitchell, 574 N.E.2d 573, 576 (Ohio Ct. App. 1989); Davis v. State, 237 P. 471, 472 (Okla. Crim. App. 1925); State v. Dudley, 564 P.2d 711, 713 (Or. Ct. App. 1977); Mikell, 729 A.2d at 568, 570; State v. Robbins, 271 S.E.2d 319, 319-20 (S.C. 1980); S.D. Pattern Jury Instructions (Criminal) 2-1-1, available on request, SRP at 0022-23 ; Poe v. State, 370 S.W.2d 488, 489 (Tenn. 1963); State v. Powers, 47 A. 830, 832-33 (Vt. 1900); Acord v. Hedrick, 342 S.E.2d 120, 126 (W. Va. 1986); WIS JI-CRIMINAL JI-775; United States v. Bryser, 954 F.2d 79, 87 (2d Cir. 1992); United States v. Hicks, 748 F.2d 854, 857 (4th Cir. 1984) (citing the Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Circuit Courts of Appeal); United States v. Schmick, 904 F.2d 936, 942-43 (5th Cir. 1990); United States v. Lillard, 354 F.3d 850, 855 (9th Cir. 2003); cf. People v. Whitson, 154 P.2d 867, 872 (Cal. 1944); Hamlin v. State, 2019-KA-00172-COA, ¶ 4, 306 So. 3d 843 (Miss. Ct. App. 2020); State v. Moreno, 422 N.W.2d 56, 61-62 (Neb. 1988); State v. Green, 151 S.E.2d 606, 608 (N.C. 1966).

<sup>4</sup>See State v. Searles, 197 A.2d 384, 386-87 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. 1964); Commonwealth v. Andrews, 83 A. 412, 414 (Pa. 1912); Commonwealth v. Smidl, 577 A.2d 210, 213 (Pa. Super. Ct. 1990) (per curiam) (Johnson, J., dissenting) (explaining the majority opinion reversing a conviction where no sua sponte alibi instruction was given)); T.P.I.-Crim. 42.13, cmt. 1 (citing Poe, 370 S.W.2d at 489).

1 conclude that the denial of the instruction or an erroneous instruction is harmless, 2 not reversible error, or otherwise not prejudicial.<sup>5</sup>

3 {16} New Mexico’s approach to the alibi instruction is in the minority.<sup>6</sup> Most of 4 these minority jurisdictions recommend no alibi instruction for the same reasons set

---

<sup>5</sup>See, e.g., Dixon v. State, 227 So. 2d 740, 743 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1969); Medina, 404 N.E.2d at 1237 (Massachusetts); People v. Matthews, 413 N.W.2d 755, 756-57 (Mich. Ct. App. 1987); State v. Rickman, 920 S.W.2d 615, 618 (Mo. Ct. App. 1996) (finding no prejudice); State v. Cobos, 863 N.W.2d 833, 838 (Neb. Ct. App. 2015); Duckett, 752 P.2d at 754 (Nevada); Echols, 972 A.2d at 1103 (New Jersey); People v. Merritt, 698 N.Y.S.2d 735, 735, 265 A.D.2d 733, 734 (N.Y. App. Div. 1999) (nonprecedential); State v. Hood, 422 S.E.2d 679, 682 (N.C. 1992); Mitchell, 574 N.E.2d at 577 (Ohio); Davis, 237 P. at 473 (Oklahoma); State v. Bardwell, 2021 WI App 20, ¶¶ 16-19, 396 Wis. 2d 702, 958 N.W.2d 160 (per curiam) (unpublished disposition); United States v. Burse, 531 F.2d 1151, 1153 (2d Cir. 1976) (citing cases from the Second, Fifth, Seventh, and Eighth Circuit Courts of Appeal that held the failure to provide an alibi instruction does not automatically require reversal); United States v. Simon, 995 F.2d 1236, 1244 (3d Cir. 1993).

<sup>6</sup>The minority jurisdictions include Arkansas, see AMCI 2d 608, cmt., (Lexis) (“While alibi instructions have often been used by trial courts in Arkansas, alibi is neither a defense nor an affirmative defense under the Arkansas Criminal Code, but rather a position the defendant may assert to create a reasonable doubt of [their] guilt. Therefore, no jury instruction should be given.”); Colorado, see Colo. Jury Instr., Criminal Ch. H cmt. 3 (2021); Illinois, see Committee Note to Illinois Pattern Jury Instructions, Criminal 24-25.05, IL-IPICRIM 24-25.05 (West) (explaining the committee decided to omit an alibi instruction because alibi is not an affirmative defense and the use of one would be a comment on the evidence); Indiana, see Ind. Pattern Jury Instructions-Crim. No. 10.21, IN-JICRIM 10.2000 (West) (“This instruction has been withdrawn.”); Kansas, see KS-PIKCRIM 51.190 (“The Committee recommends that there be no separate instruction given as to alibi.”); Kentucky, see 1 Cooper & Cetrulo, Kentucky Instructions to Juries, §§ 1.04(D), 1.09(D) (6th ed. 2021) (stating that no affirmative instruction on alibi is to be given [1.04(D)] explaining that it would result in a comment on the evidence and interfere with the jury’s right to weigh the evidence [1.09(D)]), available by request, SRP at 010-17; Maine, see Alexander, Maine Jury Instruction Manual, § 6-7 cmt., §§ 6-14 to -16, § 6-55 cmt., §§ 6-107 to -112 (2022 ed.), available on request, SRP at 0025-

1 forth in our committee commentary, but some of the minority jurisdictions have 2 nevertheless considered the alibi instruction a matter that is within the district court’s 3 discretion or affirmed giving the instruction.<sup>7</sup> Further, only a single other 4 jurisdiction, Idaho, has drafted an alibi instruction in combination with a directive 5 not to use it, like New Mexico. See ICJI 1502 Alibi Defense, cmt. Idaho, however, 6 is among the minority jurisdictions that have also affirmed a district court’s decision 7 to give the instruction under certain circumstances. See State v. Holm, 478 P.2d 284, 8 288-89 (Idaho 1970).

9 {17} Regardless of whether a jurisdiction is an offering or a minority jurisdiction, 10 most have considered some or all of the points made by the committee commentary 11 accompanying UJI 14-5150. On appeal, the State’s arguments largely echo these

---

29 (directing that the jury only receive instructions on justification defenses provided in Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. 17-a, §§ 101-110 (West 2023), which omits alibi from justification defenses); Minnesota, see 10 Minn. Prac., Jury Instr. Guides-Criminal 7.08 (6th ed. 2022), CRIMJIG 7.08 (West) (“The Committee recommends no instruction.”); Texas, see 22 Elizabeth Berry & George Gallagher, Texas Criminal Jury Charges § 3:390 (2021 ed.), TXJICRIM 3:390 (West) (“Alibi instructions are no longer required because the defensive issue of alibi constitutes no more than a negation of an essential element of the State’s burden of proof.” (emphasis omitted)); and Washington, see Wash. Prac., Pattern Jury Instr. Crim. 18.15 (5th ed. 2021), 11 WAPRAC WPIC 18.15 (West).

<sup>7</sup>Decker v. State, 499 S.W.2d 612, 616 (Ark. 1973); Ind. Judges Ass’n, Ind.
Pattern Jury Instructions-Criminal 10.21 cmt., available on request, SRP at 031-33 (providing a jury instruction example “If an instruction on this topic is appropriate” despite the official instruction being withdrawn); Remsen v. State, 495 N.E.2d 184, 187 (Ind. 1986); State v. Peters, 656 P.2d 768, 769-70 (Kan. 1983) (finding it was not reversible error to give the alibi instruction); State v. Landa, 642 N.W.2d 720, 727 (Minn. 2002).

1 points. We therefore address the State’s arguments primarily within the context of 2 the committee commentary of UJI 14-5150.

3 B. The State’s Arguments Against UJI 14-5150 and in Favor of Strict 4 Application of the Use Note and Committee Commentary

5 {18} The State first adopts the committee commentary’s two reasons not to give 6 the instruction: (1) alibi is not an affirmative defense but only casts doubt on the 7 elements of the crime; and (2) an instruction on alibi would “merely” be a 8 “comment[] on the evidence.” UJI 14-5150, comm. cmt. The State additionally 9 argues that the jury did not need a specific alibi instruction and could simply apply 10 its “common sense,” because the district court sufficiently instructed the jury about 11 the law. We disagree that this reasoning justifies what we fear is the ultimate result—12 restricting the district court’s discretion to instruct on alibi in all circumstances.

13 {19} In New Mexico an alibi is not an affirmative defense, but “an attempt to cast 14 doubt on the proof of the elements of the crime.” McGuire, 1990-NMSC-067, ¶ 31.
15 Nearly every other jurisdiction that has addressed the matter has similarly concluded 16 that alibi is not an affirmative defense, but also has allowed an alibi instruction under 17 some circumstances.<sup>8</sup> As the Delaware Supreme Court explained,

---

<sup>8</sup>Like New Mexico, most jurisdictions that generally deny an alibi instruction rely at least in part on the conclusion that alibi is not an affirmative defense, including the following: Arkansas, see Blaney v. State, 657 S.W.2d 531, 533-34
(Ark. 1983) (comparing alibi to accident); Colorado, see People v. Huckleberry, 768
P.2d 1235, 1239 (Colo. 1989) (en banc); Illinois, see People v. Poe, 272 N.E.2d 28, 31-32 (Ill. 1971); Kansas, see Peters, 656 P.2d at 769-70; Kentucky, see Parsley v.

---

Commonwealth, 321 S.W.2d 259, 260 (Ky. Ct. App. 1958); Nebraska, see State v. El-Tabech, 405 N.W.2d 585, 593 (Neb. 1987); Texas, see Giesberg v. State, 984 S.W.2d 245, 248, 250 (Tex. Crim. App. 1998) (en banc); and Utah, see Lynch, 2011 UT App 1, ¶ 17. Many others, however, offer an alibi instruction even though those jurisdictions also conclude that alibi is not an affirmative defense, including: Alabama, see Ragland v. State, 192 So. 498, 501 (Ala. 1939) (noting alibi is not an affirmative defense); Ex parte Brown, 812 So. 2d at 307 (holding an alibi instruction should have been given); Alaska, see Ferguson, 488 P.2d at 1038-39; Arizona, see Rodriguez, 961 P.2d at 1011; California, see People v. Freeman, 149 Cal. Rptr 396, 398 (1978) (in bank) (noting alibi is not an affirmative defense); People v. Seabourn, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 641, 644-45 (Ct. App. 1992) (holding that giving the instruction was not error because the facts supported it); Connecticut, see State v. Vasquez, 36 A.3d 739, 748 (Conn. App. Ct. 2012); Delaware, see Brown, 958 A.2d at 839; District of Columbia, see Gray v. United States, 549 A.2d 347, 349 n.3 (D.C. 1988); Georgia, see Rivers v. State, 298 S.E.2d 10, 19-20 (Ga. 1982) (noting alibi is not an affirmative defense); Henderson, 252 S.E.2d at 84 (holding that it is reversible error not to give an alibi instruction when the evidence supports it); Hawai'i, see State v. Gabrillo, 877 P.2d 891, 894 (Haw. Ct. App. 1994) (noting that alibi is not an affirmative defense); Hawai'i Pattern Jury Instructions—Criminal 7.14, HI R CR JURY Instr. 7.14 (West); Maryland, see Pulley v. State, 382 A.2d 621, 624 (Md. Ct. Spec. App. 1978); Missouri, see Taylor, 24 S.W. at 454, 456 (noting that alibi is not an affirmative defense); State v. Franklin, 591 S.W.2d 12, 14 (Mo. Ct. App. 1979) (stating the rule that a defendant is entitled to an alibi instruction if requested and if the evidence is sufficient to raise a reasonable doubt about the defendant's presence); Montana, see State v. McClellan, 59 P. 924, 925 (Mont. 1900); MCJI 2-119, available at <https://courts.mt.gov/Courts/boards/CriminalJuryInstructionsCommission> (select "2022 Criminal Jury Instructions" and Chapter 2, at p. 41); Nevada, see Williams v. State, 671 P.2d 635, 636 (Nev. 1983) (noting that alibi is not an affirmative defense); Duckett, 752 P.2d at 754 (concluding that an alibi instruction should be given in Nevada "when requested and supported"); New Jersey, see Searles, 197 A.2d at 386 (noting that alibi is not an affirmative defense); Echols, 972 A.2d at 1102 (holding that the failure to give an alibi instruction is error); New York, see People v. Victor, 465 N.E.2d 817, 818 (N.Y. 1984); North Carolina, see State v. Hunt, 197 S.E.2d 513, 518 (N.C. 1973); Ohio, see State v. Sorrels, 593 N.E.2d 313, 316 (Ohio Ct. App. 1991) (noting that alibi is not an affirmative defense); Mitchell, 574 N.E.2d at 576 (holding it is error to refuse an alibi instruction if the alibi is properly supported by the evidence); Pennsylvania, see Commonwealth v. Winebrenner, 265 A.2d 108, 114 (Pa. 1970) (noting that alibi is not an affirmative defense); Mikell, 729 A.2d at 568, 570 (holding a defendant is entitled to an alibi defense when the evidence supports

1 because the defense of alibi is not an affirmative defense, the defendant
2 does not have the burden of proving his alibi. Instead, a proper alibi 3 instruction informs the jury that, if the proof adduced raises a 4 reasonable doubt of the defendant’s guilt, either by itself or in 5 conjunction with all other facts in the case, the defendant must be 6 acquitted.

7 Brown, 958 A.2d at 838-39 (emphasis added) (alteration, internal quotation marks, 8 and citation omitted). The Brown Court continued:

9 Without an alibi instruction in this case, the jury was erroneously left 10 free to assume that the defendant bore the burden of proving alibi. An 11 alibi instruction is required so that a jury does not make a determination 12 of guilt based on the failure of the defense rather than because the 13 evidence introduced by the state had satisfied the jury of the defendant’s 14 guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

15 Id. at 839 (alterations, footnotes, internal quotation marks, and citation omitted); see 16 also Robertson v. State, 685 A.2d 805, 815 (Md. Ct. Spec. App. 1996) (“Because an 17 alibi is not an affirmative defense, a specific alibi instruction eliminates the 18 possibility that the jury will place the burden of proof on the defense with respect to 19 that issue.”). Similarly in New Mexico, for alibi, a defendant need only “cast doubt 20 on the proof of the elements of the crime” and bears no burden of proof. McGuire, 21 1990-NMSC-067, ¶ 31; see UJI 14-5150, comm. cmt. (noting that “it is improper to 22 instruct that the burden is on the defendant to prove his alibi”). These principles are it); South Carolina, see State v. Bealin, 23 S.E.2d 746, 753, 755 (S.C. 1943); Tennessee, see Christian v. State, 555 S.W.2d 863, 864, 866 (Tenn. 1977); and Vermont, see State v. Ovitt, 535 A.2d 1272, 1274 (Vt. 1987) (noting that alibi is not an affirmative defense); Powers, 47 A. at 832-33 (concluding the district court correctly instructed the jury on alibi).

---

1 in line with New Mexico’s law of self-defense, which is also not an affirmative 2 defense and for which the defendant bears no burden of proof. See Parish, 1994-3 NMSC-073, ¶ 17. “The defendant’s only obligation is to introduce evidence that will 4 raise in the minds of the jurors a reasonable doubt about the matter.” Id. ¶ 16. For 5 self-defense, it is the State’s burden to disprove the defense and the jury must be so 6 instructed to avoid misunderstandings about the burdens. See id. ¶ 20. For these 7 reasons, we question whether the categorization of alibi as “not an affirmative 8 defense” justifies the committee commentary’s explanation for categorically 9 refusing to instruct the jury on the topic. See id. ¶ 17.

10 {20} We are similarly skeptical of the committee commentary’s classification of 11 the alibi jury instruction as an inappropriate comment on the evidence. See UJI 14-12 5150, comm. cmt. Under well-established New Mexico law, an improper comment 13 on the evidence is one that (1) contextualizes specific facts presented; (2) argues or 14 hypothesizes on factual issues within the jury’s purview to decide; or (3) otherwise 15 makes a statement about the weight or credibility of evidence in the presence of the 16 jury. See State v. Padilla, 1977-NMCA-055, ¶ 13, 90 N.M. 481, 565 P.2d 352 17 (requiring instructions be “free from hypothesized facts” (internal quotation marks 18 and citation omitted)); Amador v. Lara, 1979-NMCA-129, ¶¶ 24-32, 93 N.M. 571, 19 603 P.2d 310 (considering a court’s note to the jury that included an explanation of 20 the damages evidence); State v. Sanchez, 1991-NMCA-037, ¶¶ 26-28, 112 N.M. 59,

1 811 P.2d 92 (noting that comments that reflect on the weight of evidence or witness 2 credibility are prejudicial); see also Rule 11-107 NMRA (“The court shall not 3 comment to the jury upon the evidence or the credibility of the witnesses.”); UJI 4 Crim. Gen. NMRA use note (“For other subject matters not covered by a uniform 5 instruction, the court may give an instruction that is brief, impartial, free from 6 hypothesized facts, and otherwise similar in style to these instructions.”). Other 7 jurisdictions have characterized commenting on the evidence slightly differently, but 8 ultimately, warn courts against expressing an opinion about evidence<sup>9</sup> or drawing 9 attention to particular evidence.<sup>10</sup> The Supreme Court of Arizona explained that a 10 comment on the evidence ultimately “express[es] an opinion as to what the evidence 11 proves . . . that would interfere with the jury’s independent evaluation of that 12 evidence.” Rodriguez, 961 P.2d at 1011 (evaluating the state constitutional 13 prohibition on comment on evidence). With these principles in mind, we set forth 14 our alibi instruction again:

---

<sup>9</sup>State v. Kim, 2001 ME 99, ¶ 8, 773 A.2d 1051 (“Because traditional alibi instructions are in the nature of a comment by the court on the evidence, such instructions are neither required nor appropriate in most instances.” (citing 14 M.R.S.A. § 1105 (1980))).

<sup>10</sup>See Landa, 642 N.W.2d at 728 n.2 (cautioning Minnesota courts “that instructions that single out a particular category of evidence shall be avoided”); Giesberg, 984 S.W.2d at 250 (holding that in Texas, “a separate instruction on alibi as a defense would draw unwarranted attention to evidence that appellant was at another place when the crime was committed and would therefore constitute an improper comment on the weight of the evidence”).

1 Evidence has been presented concerning whether or not the 2 defendant was present at the time and place of the commission of the 3 offense charged. If, after a consideration of all the evidence, you have 4 reasonable doubt that the defendant was present at the time the crime
5 was committed, you must find him not guilty.

6 UJI 14-5150. This instruction does not contextualize or hypothesize the facts or 7 express an opinion about the evidence. The instruction does not “suggest to the jury 8 that the evidence should lead them to any particular result [but r]ather, it reframes 9 the burden of proof in the context of [the defendant]’s alibi theory.” See Rodriguez, 10 961 P.2d at 1012. As a result, we do not believe that UJI 14-5150 functions as a 11 comment on the evidence, despite the committee commentary’s characterization.<sup>11</sup>

12 {21} The State last maintains that “[t]here [was] no reason why the jury needed to 13 be instructed on ‘how to properly evaluate’ [Defendant’s] alibi,” because the given 14 instructions sufficiently explained the law. In support of its contention, the State 15 argues that “it is self-evident that, if the jury believed Defendant was in Cedar City 16 that night, he could not have committed the theft and was not guilty of the charges”

---

<sup>11</sup>It is worth noting that “comment on evidence” is often tied to older versions of the instruction like this one: “The law says that the defense of alibi should be received by the jury discreetly and cautiously because it is a defense that can be easily manufactured or fabricated.” Christian, 555 S.W.2d at 864 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). The Christian Court rejected this instruction because “[t]he overwhelming weight of authority in other states where trial judges are prohibited from making comments upon the evidence is that disparaging comments or references to the issue of alibi are erroneous.” Id. at 864, 866.

1 and “UJI 14-5150 does not tell jurors anything they d[id] not already know as a 2 matter of common sense.” The Supreme Court of Alaska took a different view:

3 Instructions serve purposes other than to inform the jury on the law
4 applicable to the case, one such other purpose being to remind the jury 5 of the main factual disputes raised during trial. Moreover, without 6 proper instruction the jury might erroneously believe that the defendant 7 has the burden of proving alibi.

8 Ferguson, 488 P.2d at 1038. Similarly, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania observed 9 that:

10 “[G]eneral instructions on the [c]ommonwealth’s burden of proving 11 each element of the offense beyond a reasonable doubt, the absence of 12 a burden of proof on the defendant, and assessing the credibility of 13 witnesses do not adequately protect against” the danger posed by the 14 misapprehensions a jury might indulge regarding the relevance and 15 effect of alibi evidence.

16 Commonwealth v. Hawkins, 894 A.2d 716, 718 (Pa. 2006) (quoting Commonwealth 17 v. Pounds, 417 A.2d 597, 634 (Pa. 1980)); see Rodriguez, 961 P.2d at 1011 18 (“[S]tandard instructions about the burden of proof provide a poor substitute for a 19 properly supported alibi instruction.”); Brown, 958 A.2d at 838-39 (rejecting the 20 state’s argument that general instructions on burden of proof eliminated prejudice); 21 Pulley, 382 A.2d at 626 (same); Poe, 370 S.W.2d at 489 (same); Duckett, 752 P.2d 22 at 754 (“Although alibi instructions may, to some extent, merely be a reiteration of 23 other instructions, they are not totally redundant . . . [and] may prevent a jury from 24 mistakenly believing that the defendant has the burden of proving that he was 25 elsewhere, thereby minimizing the prospect of prejudicial error on the point.”). We

1 find this reasoning persuasive, particularly in the context of the trial in the present 2 case. We turn then to review the facts as they developed at trial through closing 3 argument but not to discern any error, because, as we have explained, we are 4 precluded from finding error under these circumstances. Instead, we relay the facts, 5 viewed through the lens of our reversible error standard, to demonstrate the risk run 6 by the categorical denial of the instruction.

7 C. The Present Case Demonstrates the Elevated Risk of Juror Confusion
8 and Misdirection When Alibi Evidence is Offered

9 {22} A defendant is entitled to a jury instruction on their theory of the case when 10 the instruction is supported by sufficient evidence at trial. See State v. Romero, 2009-11 NMCA-012, ¶ 22, 145 N.M. 594, 203 P.3d 125; see also Skippings, 2011-NMSC-12 021, ¶ 10 (“A defendant is entitled to an instruction on his or her theory of the case 13 if evidence has been presented that is sufficient to allow reasonable minds to differ 14 as to all elements of the offense.” (internal quotation marks and citation omitted)).
15 Denial of a jury instruction rises to reversible error if the defendant shows they were 16 entitled to the denied instruction or that “a reasonable juror [c]ould have been 17 confused or misdirected” by the omission. State v. Montoya, 2015-NMSC-010, ¶ 25, 18 345 P.3d 1056 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). Confusion or 19 misdirection may arise “despite the fact that the juror considers the instruction 20 straightforward and perfectly comprehensible on its face.” Benally, 2001-NMSC-21 033, ¶ 12 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). Thus, even if a jury

1 instruction is not facially contradictory or ambiguous, it may create juror confusion 2 or misdirection if the instruction, “through omission or misstatement, fail[s] to 3 provide the juror with an accurate rendition of the relevant law.” Id.; see State v.
4 Ellis, 2008-NMSC-032, ¶ 14, 144 N.M. 253, 186 P.3d 245 (“A jury instruction
5 which does not instruct the jury upon all questions of law essential for a conviction 6 of any crime submitted to the jury is reversible error.” (internal quotation marks and 7 citation omitted)).

8 {23} In the present case, the jury received correct instructions on the State’s burden 9 of proof. See UJI 14-5060 NMRA. The elements instructions reiterated the State’s 10 burden of proof. See UJI 14-1601 NMRA (Larceny; essential elements.); UJI 14-11 1630 (Burglary; essential elements.). During closing argument, the State referred to 12 the alibi evidence as the “alibi card” and repeatedly warned the jury to the effect that 13 Defendant was “trying to get out from under the truth” and get the jury “to buy into 14 that alibi card.” After arguing about the alibi evidence, the State asked the jury “as 15 we stand here now, what evidence do you as a jury have to establish the alibi that he 16 wasn’t at Lowe’s at 10:40 [p.m.] on December 2nd?” Defendant objected, and the 17 trial court warned the State that the argument was “getting close” but overruled the 18 objection. The State continued, told the jury that it had the testimony of Defendant 19 and Majeski and the restaurant receipt, and asked, “Who else could have added to 20 the alibi?” Defendant again objected and the State indicated it would move on,

1 though continued to make comments that an alibi had not been proved. On rebuttal, 2 the State began by correctly asserting that “if you believe [Defendant] and Mr.
3 Majeski, I should just sit down, because that is reasonable doubt and the verdict 4 would have to be not guilty.” The State continued and argued to the jury that the 5 alibi evidence was “being used against [Defendant] to challenge his credibility 6 because the only way he’s not guilty is if you believe him and Mr. Majeski.”

7 {24} Undoubtedly, as the parties agree, the State may challenge credibility of the 8 alibi evidence and witnesses. The State may not, however, present an argument that 9 serves to shift the burden of proof. The alibi instruction would have told the jury that 10 “[i]f, after a consideration of all the evidence, you have reasonable doubt that the 11 defendant was present at the time the crime was committed, you must find him not 12 guilty.” See UJI 14-5150. This instruction creates a framework for the jury to 13 understand the State’s burden to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Defendant 14 was present when the crime took place when Defendant contends he was elsewhere.
15 This is especially so in the context of the present case, with the State’s continued 16 references to Defendant’s failure to prove the alibi, culminating in the argument on 17 rebuttal that the only way Defendant would be “not guilty” was if the jury did not 18 believe the alibi evidence. Absent such an instruction,<sup>12</sup> the likelihood of juror

---

<sup>12</sup>We observe that other jurisdictions have instructions that more explicitly set forth the burdens. See Alabama Pattern Jury Instructions: Criminal, Non-Statutory Special Instructions, Alibi (approved April 15, 2016), available at 1 confusion escalated. We agree with Defendant’s observation at oral argument that 2 UJI 14-5150 would have offered an appropriate reminder given the facts and 3 arguments in this case of the State’s burdens. The facts of this case further 4 demonstrate the danger of relying on “common sense” to ensure that a jury 5 understands difficult concepts. The elements of larceny require the State to prove 6 the market value of the stolen property, which is unrelated to Defendant’s presence.

7 See UJI 14-1601 (requiring the State to prove: “1. The defendant took and carried 8 away [property], belonging to another, which had a market value [over $ 20,000]”).
9 The State was required to prove all of the elements of larceny, even if the jury did 10 not believe Defendant’s alibi evidence. We therefore observe that despite the proper 11 instructions on reasonable doubt and the State’s burden, “a reasonable juror [c]ould

---

<https://judicial.alabama.gov/docs/library/docs/Alibi.pdf>; Conn. Criminal Jury Instructions § 2.7-2 (Nov. 2021), available at <https://jud.ct.gov/JI/Criminal/Criminal.pdf>; Georgia Suggested Pattern Jury Instructions, Vol. II: Criminal Cases, § 3.30.10, GAJICRIM 3.30.10 (West); Instruction 9.120 of the Criminal Model Jury Instructions for Use in the District Court 9.120 (2009), MJ MA-CLE 9.100 (West) (Massachusetts); New Jersey Model Jury Charges (Criminal), “Alibi (Non 2C)” (rev. May 12, 2018), NJ-JICRIM Non 2C Charges (West); CJ12D(NY) GA 21–Alibi and 1 Charges to Jury & Requests to Charge in Crim. Case in N.Y. §§ 5:7-:9 (Oct. 2022 update) (New York). Still other jurisdictions have adopted an instruction similar to the instruction that the State referenced at oral argument. See Frye, 746 F.2d at 1012-13 (4th Cir.); see also Miss. Prac. Model Jury Instr., Crim. § 2:1 (2d ed.) (West) and Miss. Plain Lang. Model Jury Instr. Crim. 500 (West); N.H. Criminal Jury Instructions 3.02 (1985), available at <https://nhba.s3.amazonaws.com/wp-content/uploads/2020/07/14150407/NH-Criminal-Jury-Instructions-1985.pdf>; N.C.P.I.—Crim. 301.10 (2003) (North Carolina); Anderson’s S.C. Requests to Charge - Criminal § 6-19 (2d ed. 2012), SC-JICRIM 6-19 (West); WIS JI-CRIMINAL JI-775 (West).

1 have been confused or misdirected” by the omission of the alibi instruction. See 2 Montoya, 2015-NMSC-010, ¶ 25 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted); 3 see also Romero, 2009-NMCA-012, ¶ 22.

4 {25} For these reasons, we express our reservations regarding the Use Note and 5 New Mexico’s prohibition against giving the uniform alibi jury instruction at the 6 district court’s discretion in appropriate circumstances. Wilson, 1994-NMSC-009, 7 ¶ 6 (encouraging “the Court of Appeals to express its rationale for any reservations 8 it might harbor over Supreme Court precedent”).

9 II. The Evidentiary Issues

10 {26} Defendant challenges the district court’s admission of Nickel’s opinion 11 testimony and exclusion of Docimo’s preliminary hearing testimony. We review the 12 evidentiary rulings for an abuse of discretion. State v. Vargas, 2016-NMCA-038, 13 ¶ 10, 368 P.3d 1232. “An abuse of discretion occurs when a ruling is clearly against 14 the logic and effect of the facts and circumstances of the case, or when a ruling 15 indicates a misapprehension of the law.” State v. Chavez, 2022-NMCA-007, ¶ 39, 16 504 P.3d 541 (alterations, internal quotation marks, and citations omitted). We will 17 only reverse where the abuse is “clearly untenable or not justified by reason.” State 18 v. Maxwell, 2016-NMCA-082, ¶ 10, 384 P.3d 116 (internal quotation marks and 19 citation omitted).

1 A. The District Court Did Not Abuse Its Discretion in Admitting Nickel’s
2 Opinion Testimony

3 {27} At trial, Defendant argued that Nickel’s testimony amounted to expert 4 testimony and not lay testimony. Since trial, this Court decided Chavez. In that case, 5 we rejected police officer testimony that “form[ed] conclusions for jurors that they 6 are competent to reach on their own.” 2022-NMCA-007, ¶ 42 (internal quotation
7 marks and citation omitted). Defendant now relies on Chavez to argue that Nickel’s 8 testimony that identified Defendant in the incident video was improper. The heart of 9 the parties’ dispute about Nickel’s testimony is whether her opinion was helpful to 10 the jury in accordance with Rule 11-701(B) NMRA and that is where we focus our 11 inquiry.

12 {28} The district court viewed Nickel’s testimony to be lay opinion testimony. Lay 13 opinion testimony is admissible only if it is “helpful to clearly understanding the 14 witness’s testimony or to determining a fact in issue.” Rule 11-701(B). The 15 helpfulness of opinion testimony that identifies an individual in video evidence is 16 based on whether “the witness is more likely than the jury to make an accurate 17 identification.” Chavez, 2022-NMCA-007, ¶ 41 (stating this Court’s acceptance of 18 “this general rule” (citing State v. Sweat, 2017-NMCA-069, ¶¶ 21-24, 404 P.3d 20)).
19 In Sweat, this Court adopted five factors “relevant to a determination of whether a 20 lay witness is more likely than the jury to identify the defendant correctly” in video 21 or photographic evidence, including,

1 (1) the witness’s general level of familiarity with the defendant’s 2 appearance; (2) the witness’s familiarity with the defendant’s 3 appearance at the time the surveillance photograph was taken or 4 whether the defendant was dressed in a manner similar to the individual 5 depicted; (3) whether the defendant disguised his or her appearance at 6 the time of the offense; (4) whether the defendant had altered his or her 7 appearance prior to trial; and (5) the degree of clarity of the surveillance 8 recording and the quality and completeness of the subject’s depiction 9 in the recording.

10 2017-NMCA-069, ¶ 22 (alterations, internal quotation marks, and citations omitted).

11 Any one of these five factors can demonstrate that the witness is more likely than 12 the jury to make a correct identification of a person appearing in a video recording.

13 Id.; Chavez, 2022-NMCA-007, ¶ 41.

14 {29} This Court in Chavez stressed the importance of preventing a witness from 15 drawing conclusions that the jury was in an equally apt position to draw on its own.

16 2022-NMCA-007, ¶ 41. The district court in Chavez permitted an officer, based on 17 her “training and experience,” to provide opinion testimony identifying “a dark 18 object” in a black-and-white surveillance video as a gun. Id. ¶ 40 (internal quotation

19 marks omitted). This Court determined, however, that the officer (1) had no more 20 interaction or “special familiarity with the visual appearance” of the gun, which was 21 “an ordinary object;” (2) “was not present on the night of the incident” and “had no 22 opportunity to observe whether [the d]efendant was armed;” and (3) did not have 23 “knowledge of anything idiosyncratic about [the d]efendant or his belongings.” Id.

24 ¶ 42. Because the officer solely relied on evidence already admitted and available to

1 the jury to identify the gun in the video and had no more knowledge or interaction 2 with the gun than the jury, the officer had no special familiarity with the gun that 3 made her more likely than the jury to accurately identify the gun in the video 4 evidence. Id. The identification testimony was therefore not helpful to the Chavez 5 jury. Id.

6 {30} In the present case, Defendant’s argument hinges on Chavez. According to 7 Defendant, because the jury had access to the “plethora” of video evidence, the jury 8 had “a similar level of competence as Nickel” to determine whether Defendant was 9 the person in the incident footage. Consequently, Defendant argues that “Nickel’s 10 opinions in her testimony were conclusions that the jury could have arrived at based 11 on the evidence provided at trial” and that Nickel’s opinion testimony was therefore 12 unhelpful and improper. Defendant’s argument disregards Nickel’s undisputed 13 personal knowledge of Defendant.

14 {31} Nickel worked with Defendant for about two years and had almost daily 15 contact with Defendant during that time. This evidence establishes a special 16 familiarity beyond that of the officer in Chavez. Defendant concedes that this 17 evidence satisfies one of the five Sweat factors, the witness’s familiarity with 18 Defendant’s appearance. See 2017-NMCA-069, ¶ 22. Defendant further concedes 19 that because the person in the incident footage was dressed in disguise, a second 20 Sweat factor supports admission of Nickel’s identification testimony. See id.

1 Nickel’s knowledge of Defendant and the fact that the face of the person in the 2 incident footage was concealed makes it more likely that Nickel’s testimony could 3 help the jury to identify Defendant in the recordings. As a result, the district court 4 did not abuse its discretion by admitting Nickel’s opinion testimony.

5 B. The District Court Did Not Abuse Its Discretion in Excluding Docimo’s
6 Preliminary Hearing Testimony

7 {32} Defendant also challenges the district court’s exclusion of the preliminary 8 examination testimony of Docimo. Generally, a transcript would be considered 9 inadmissible hearsay, except in certain circumstances if the witness is unavailable.
10 See Rule 11-801(C) NMRA (defining hearsay); Rule 11-802 NMRA (excluding 11 hearsay as inadmissible); Rule 11-804 NMRA (unavailable witness). A witness is 12 unavailable if the party calling the witness was unable “by process or other 13 reasonable means, to procure” the witness’s attendance. Rule 11-804(A)(5).
14 Throughout this case, Defendant has contended that he met the burden to establish 15 that he was unable by “other reasonable means” to procure Docimo’s attendance at 16 trial. See State v. Ewing, 1982-NMSC-003, ¶ 17, 97 N.M. 235, 638 P.2d 1080 17 (explaining the burden is on the party offering the transcript to demonstrate 18 unavailability (internal quotation marks and citation omitted)). Initially, the district 19 agreed that Docimo was unavailable and therefore ruled that the preliminary hearing 20 transcript was admissible. At trial, however, Majeski, testified that he had contact 21 with Docimo in the weeks before trial. Based on this testimony, the district court

1 determined that Plaintiff did not establish Docimo’s unavailability for the purposes 2 of Rule 11-804. Defendant maintains his position on appeal that the investigator had 3 not been able to locate Docimo and Defendant himself had no knowledge of 4 Docimo’s whereabouts.

5 {33} For support, Defendant analogizes to Ewing, in which our Supreme Court held 6 that the party seeking admission of hearsay had made reasonable efforts to secure 7 the witness. See 1982-NMSC-003, ¶ 17. Defendant contends that like in Ewing, his 8 investigator had difficulty serving Docimo. Docimo did not want to come to trial, 9 see id. ¶¶ 14, 17, and therefore, Defendant maintains that his efforts to secure 10 Docimo were reasonable. Unlike in Ewing, however, Defendant did not check other 11 potential addresses, schools, welfare offices, or talk to neighbors. See id. ¶ 14. To 12 the contrary, the evidence shows that Defendant’s investigator did not even ask 13 Majeski about Docimo’s whereabouts, even though Majeski was Docimo’s husband.
14 Under these circumstances, we cannot say that the district court’s exclusion of the 15 preliminary hearing transcript was an abuse of discretion and “clearly against the 16 logic and effect of the facts and circumstances of the case.” Maxwell, 2016-NMCA-17 082, ¶ 10 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted).

1 III. The Sufficiency of the Evidence

2 {34} Defendant last challenges the sufficiency of the evidence supporting the 3 larceny conviction and the amount of the restitution order. We are satisfied that 4 sufficient evidence supported both.

5 A. The Evidence Supported Defendant’s Larceny Conviction

6 {35} The elements essential to conviction are set forth in the relevant uncontested 7 jury instructions. See State v. Garcia, 2016-NMSC-034, ¶ 17, 384 P.3d 1076 (“Jury 8 instructions become the law of the case against which the sufficiency of the evidence 9 is to be measured.” (alteration, internal quotation marks, and citation omitted)). In 10 this case, the jury instruction as to Count I, Larceny Over $20,000, provided:

11 For you to find . . . Defendant guilty of Larceny as Charged in 12 Count 1, the State must prove to your satisfaction beyond a reasonable 13 doubt each of the following elements of the crime:

- 14 1. Defendant took and carried away Cash—United States 15 Currency, belonging to another, which had a market value over 16 $20,000;
- 17 2. At the time he took this property, Defendant intended to 18 permanently deprive the owner of it;
- 19 3. This happened in New Mexico on or about the 2nd day of 20 December[,] 2017.

21 See UJI 14-1601. Defendant challenges the sufficiency of the evidence only as to the 22 first element. “In reviewing for sufficiency of the evidence, we must determine 23 whether substantial evidence of either a direct or circumstantial nature exists to 1 support a verdict of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt with respect to every element

2 essential to a conviction.” State v. Torres, 2018-NMSC-013, ¶ 42, 413 P.3d 467
3 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). We view the evidence in the light 4 most favorable to the guilty verdict and only find evidence is substantial when “a 5 reasonable mind might accept [it] as adequate to support a conclusion.” Id. (internal 6 quotation marks and citation omitted); see State v. Cunningham, 2000-NMSC-009, 7 ¶ 26, 128 N.M. 711, 998 P.2d 176.

8 {36} At trial, the State presented the testimony of both Nickel and Detective Rock 9 that over $20,000 had been stolen, but the two witnesses testified to different 10 amounts. Nickel testified that approximately $36,000 had been stolen, based on her 11 review of accounting paperwork that was not introduced at trial. Detective Rock, 12 based on Officer Flores’s report, testified that the amount was $33,040.85. Any 13 conflict between Nickel’s and Detective Rock’s testimony was to be resolved by the 14 fact-finder, and regardless, a rational jury could conclude that this evidence 15 establishes that more than $20,000 was stolen. See State v. Landlee, 1973-NMCA-16 112, ¶ 3, 85 N.M. 449, 513 P.2d 186 (considering conflicting testimony as to the 17 amount stolen in a larceny trial); see also State v. Dominguez, 1977-NMCA-128, 18 ¶¶ 14, 15, 91 N.M. 296, 573 P.2d 230 (permitting the jury to determine that the value 19 of items stolen).

1 {37} Defendant maintains that this evidence—at best—supports the notion that 2 Nickel and Detective Rock believed that more than $20,000 was taken but that 3 without the accounting or report supporting their testimony, the evidence was legally 4 insufficient for conviction. Therefore, Defendant contends that the State failed to 5 meet its burden of proof in violation of Defendant’s due process rights under both 6 the federal and state constitutions. We disagree. No authority suggests the amount 7 taken must be established by documentary evidence. See Landlee, 1973-NMCA-8 112, ¶¶ 2, 3. To the extent Defendant urges us to adopt a requirement for 9 documentary evidence, based on a New York trial court’s slip opinion in People v.
10 Cruz, 130 A.D.3d 1538 (N.Y. App. Div. 2015), we decline to do so. Applying our 11 well-established standard, viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the 12 guilty verdict, we conclude that a jury could rationally determine over $20,000 was 13 taken from Lowe’s. See § 30-16-1(F); see Landlee, 1973-NMCA-112, ¶ 3.

14 B. The Evidence Supported the Restitution Order

15 {38} Defendant additionally contends that there was no basis for the district court’s 16 order requiring $33,040.83 in restitution, because (1) the amount of restitution did 17 not match the evidence from trial, and (2) no presentencing investigation or evidence 18 supported the amount. As a result, Defendant argues that he had no notice or 19 mechanism to challenge the amount of restitution. Defendant concedes this issue is 20 not preserved, and we therefore review for fundamental error. See In re Aaron L.,

1 2000-NMCA-024, ¶ 10, 128 N.M. 641, 996 P.2d 431. The fundamental error
2 exception to the preservation rule applies “only under extraordinary circumstances 3 to prevent the miscarriage of justice.” State v. Silva, 2008-NMSC-051, ¶ 13, 144 4 N.M. 815, 192 P.3d 1192 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted), holding 5 modified on other grounds by State v. Guerra, 2012-NMSC-027, ¶¶14, 15, 284 P.3d 6 1076.

7 {39} According to Defendant, the trial evidence did not support the restitution
8 amount ($33,040.83) because it differed from the amounts testified to by Nickels 9 ($36,000) and Detective Rock ($33,040.85). We note, however, that the amount 10 ordered for restitution was two cents less than the amount testified to by Detective 11 Rock. Defendant had notice of Detective Rock’s testimony from the trial, and the 12 difference between Detective Rock’s testimony and the restitution order is 13 nominal—and ultimately the restitution order required Defendant to pay two cents 14 less than the testimony indicated. We decline to view this two-cent decrease as an 15 “extraordinary” circumstance requiring our intervention “to prevent the miscarriage 16 of justice.” See id. (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). Because the 17 restitution amount was sufficiently supported by the trial evidence, we do not 18 consider Defendant’s argument that a presentence report was necessary to provide 19 notice of the restitution amount. Accordingly, we find no fundamental error.

1 CONCLUSION

2 {40} For the reasons stated herein, we affirm.

3 {41} IT IS SO ORDERED.

4
5 _____
6 KATHERINE A. WRAY, Judge

6 WE CONCUR:

7 8 _____
9 J. MILES HANISEE, Judge

9
10 _____
11 MEGAN P. DUFFY, Judge