6 MEMORANDUM OPINION

7 DUFFY, Judge.

8 {1} Defendants Walter and Brenda Seidel appeal from the district court’s order
9 addressing standing and granting summary judgment on Plaintiff’s foreclosure
10 complaint. [3 RP 727-35] In this Court’s notice of proposed disposition, we proposed 11 summary affirmance. Defendants filed a memorandum in opposition, which we have 12 duly considered. We note that Defendants have filed with this Court a copy of a 13 pleading Defendants also filed in the district court. Remaining unpersuaded, we 14 affirm.

15 {2} In their memorandum in opposition, Defendants continue to attack Plaintiff’s 16 standing to foreclose on the real property at issue. Defendants argue that they are the 17 “equitable owners of the property,” and that therefore “we and no others own the 18 equity to the property in question absent lawful recovery for purchase money.” [MIO 19 PDF 2] Defendants acknowledge that Merrill Lynch Credit Corp. was the initial 20 mortgagee of the real property, and argue that therefore Merrill Lynch Credit Corp.
21 “is the only procedurally proper party to litigate a foreclosure suit in re our property.”
22 [MIO PDF 3] Furthermore, Defendants continue to argue that the transfer of the

1 “relevant loan” to the Plaintiff as Trustee for the Certificate Holders of CWALT,
2 Inc., Alternative Loan Trust 2007-OH1, Mortgage Pass-Through Certificates, Series
3 2007-OH1 “extinguished our obligation to pay plaintiff any sum of money as a
4 promissory note is a negotiable instrument while a loan is not.” [MIO PDF 3]

5 Defendants continue to assert that

6 even if counsel for alleged [P]laintiff’s dubious proffer of the original 7 promissory note proves valid their confessed separation from the last 8 bona fide holder-in-due-course named on the promissory note which is 9 evidence of our debt and the party in possession of our loan regardless 10 of whether expressed as a debt or a loan, renders counsel’s . . .
11 foreclosure a substantive and procedural nullity, patently frivolous.

12 [MIO PDF 4]

13 {3} We note that this Court considered Defendants’ arguments as to standing in 14 detail in our proposed summary disposition. We reviewed New Mexico law as to 15 standing in foreclosure complaints at length. Again, repeating our proposed 16 summary disposition [CN 6-8], we note that a foreclosing party “must demonstrate 17 that it had the right to enforce the note and the right to foreclose the mortgage at the 18 time the foreclosure suit was filed.” PNC Mortg. v. Romero, 2016-NMCA-064, ¶ 19, 19 377 P.3d 461 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted); see Bank of N.Y. v.
20 Romero, 2014-NMSC-007, ¶ 17, 320 P.3d 1 (“One who holds a note secured by a 21 mortgage has two separate and independent remedies, which he may pursue 22 successively or concurrently; one is on the note against the person and property of 23 the debtor, and the other is by foreclosure to enforce the mortgage lien upon his real

1 estate.” (internal quotation marks and citation omitted)); id. ¶ 35 (recognizing “the 2 separate functions that note and mortgage contracts perform in foreclosure actions,” 3 where “the note is the loan and the mortgage is a pledged security for that loan”).
4 With respect to the promissory note, the foreclosing party must demonstrate that, at 5 the time it filed suit, it “either (1) had physical possession of the . . . note indorsed 6 to it or indorsed in blank or (2) received the note with the right to enforcement, as 7 required by the UCC.” Id. ¶ 19.

8 {4} “[T]he holder of a note indorsed in blank may, as a general matter, enforce 9 the note.” Deutsche Bank Nat’l Tr. Co. v. Johnston, 2016-NMSC-013, ¶ 25, 369 P.3d
10 1046 (citing NMSA 1978, §§ 55-3-205(b), -301 (1992)); see Romero, 2014-NMSC-11 007, ¶ 26 (“[The] blank indorsement . . . established the [b]ank as a holder because 12 the [b]ank [was] in possession of bearer paper.”).

13 {5} As we reviewed in our proposed summary disposition, here the district court
14 found that Plaintiff attached to the original complaint a copy of the original
15 promissory note. [3 RP 728] The district court noted that Plaintiff subsequently filed
16 with the district court the original promissory note. [3 RP 728] The district court
17 noted that Defendants had an opportunity to view and inspect the original instrument 18 at a hearing, under supervision of the district court. [3 RP 728] The district court was 19 satisfied that the signatures on the original note matched Defendants’ signatures, and 20 no objection was raised to the contrary. [3 RP 728] The district court noted that the

1 lender on the original note was “Quicken Loans Inc.” and that the original note has 2 several endorsements affixed to it. [3 RP 728-29] The final endorsement endorsed 3 the note in blank, making the holder of the instrument the entity entitled to enforce 4 the note. Deutsche Bank Nat’l Tr. Co., 2016-NMSC-013, ¶ 25; Romero, 2014-
5 NMSC-007, ¶ 26. In this case, the final endorsement on the note was in blank, and 6 Plaintiff’s counsel confirmed that they had possession of the original note at the time 7 the complaint was filed. [3 RP 729] Thus, Plaintiff established a prima facie case of 8 standing to enforce the note.

9 {6} In their memorandum in opposition, Defendants do not engage with the New 10 Mexico law cited above, nor the facts found by the district court as enumerated 11 above. Defendants have not addressed this Court’s proposed conclusion, nor have 12 they asserted any facts, law, or argument that persuades this Court that our notice of 13 proposed disposition was erroneous. See Hennessy v. Duryea, 1998-NMCA-036, 14 ¶ 24, 124 N.M. 754, 955 P.2d 683 (“Our courts have repeatedly held that, in 15 summary calendar cases, the burden is on the party opposing the proposed 16 disposition to clearly point out errors in fact or law.”); State v. Mondragon, 1988-17 NMCA-027, ¶ 10, 107 N.M. 421, 759 P.2d 1003 (stating that “[a] party responding
18 to a summary calendar notice must come forward and specifically point out errors 19 of law and fact,” and the repetition of earlier arguments does not fulfill this 20 requirement), superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in State v. Harris,

1 2013-NMCA-031, ¶ 3, 297 P.3d 374. Further, we note that this Court “will not 2 review unclear arguments, or guess at what [a party’s] arguments might be.” See
3 Headley v. Morgan Mgmt. Corp., 2005-NMCA-045, ¶ 15, 137 N.M. 339, 110 P.3d
4 1076; see also Corona v. Corona, 2014-NMCA-071, ¶ 28, 329 P.3d 701 (“This 5 Court has no duty to review an argument that is not adequately developed.”). Thus, 6 we cannot conclude there is any merit to Defendants’ arguments regarding the lack 7 of standing of Plaintiff in its complaint for foreclosure, and we conclude that there 8 was no error by the district court.

9 {7} To the extent that Defendants wish to assert arguments as to the suit in federal 10 court regarding Defendants’ obligations to the United States of America by and 11 through the Internal Revenue Service, we note that this Court of the State of New 12 Mexico shall not opine as to any matter in federal court regarding the Internal 13 Revenue Service. [MIO PDF 4]

14 {8} Accordingly, for the reasons stated in our notice of proposed disposition and 15 herein, we affirm the district court.
